THE JUNCTION

Located in Toronto's West End, the historic district of The Junction – is a hip neighbourhood that gets its name for once being the heart of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The main thoroughway of Dundas West is alive with restaurants, bars, local boutiques, and businesses. Bordered by the northern end of High Park and the trendy eastern arm of Junction Triangle, this eclectic area offers a bustling place to shop during the day or a lively night out.

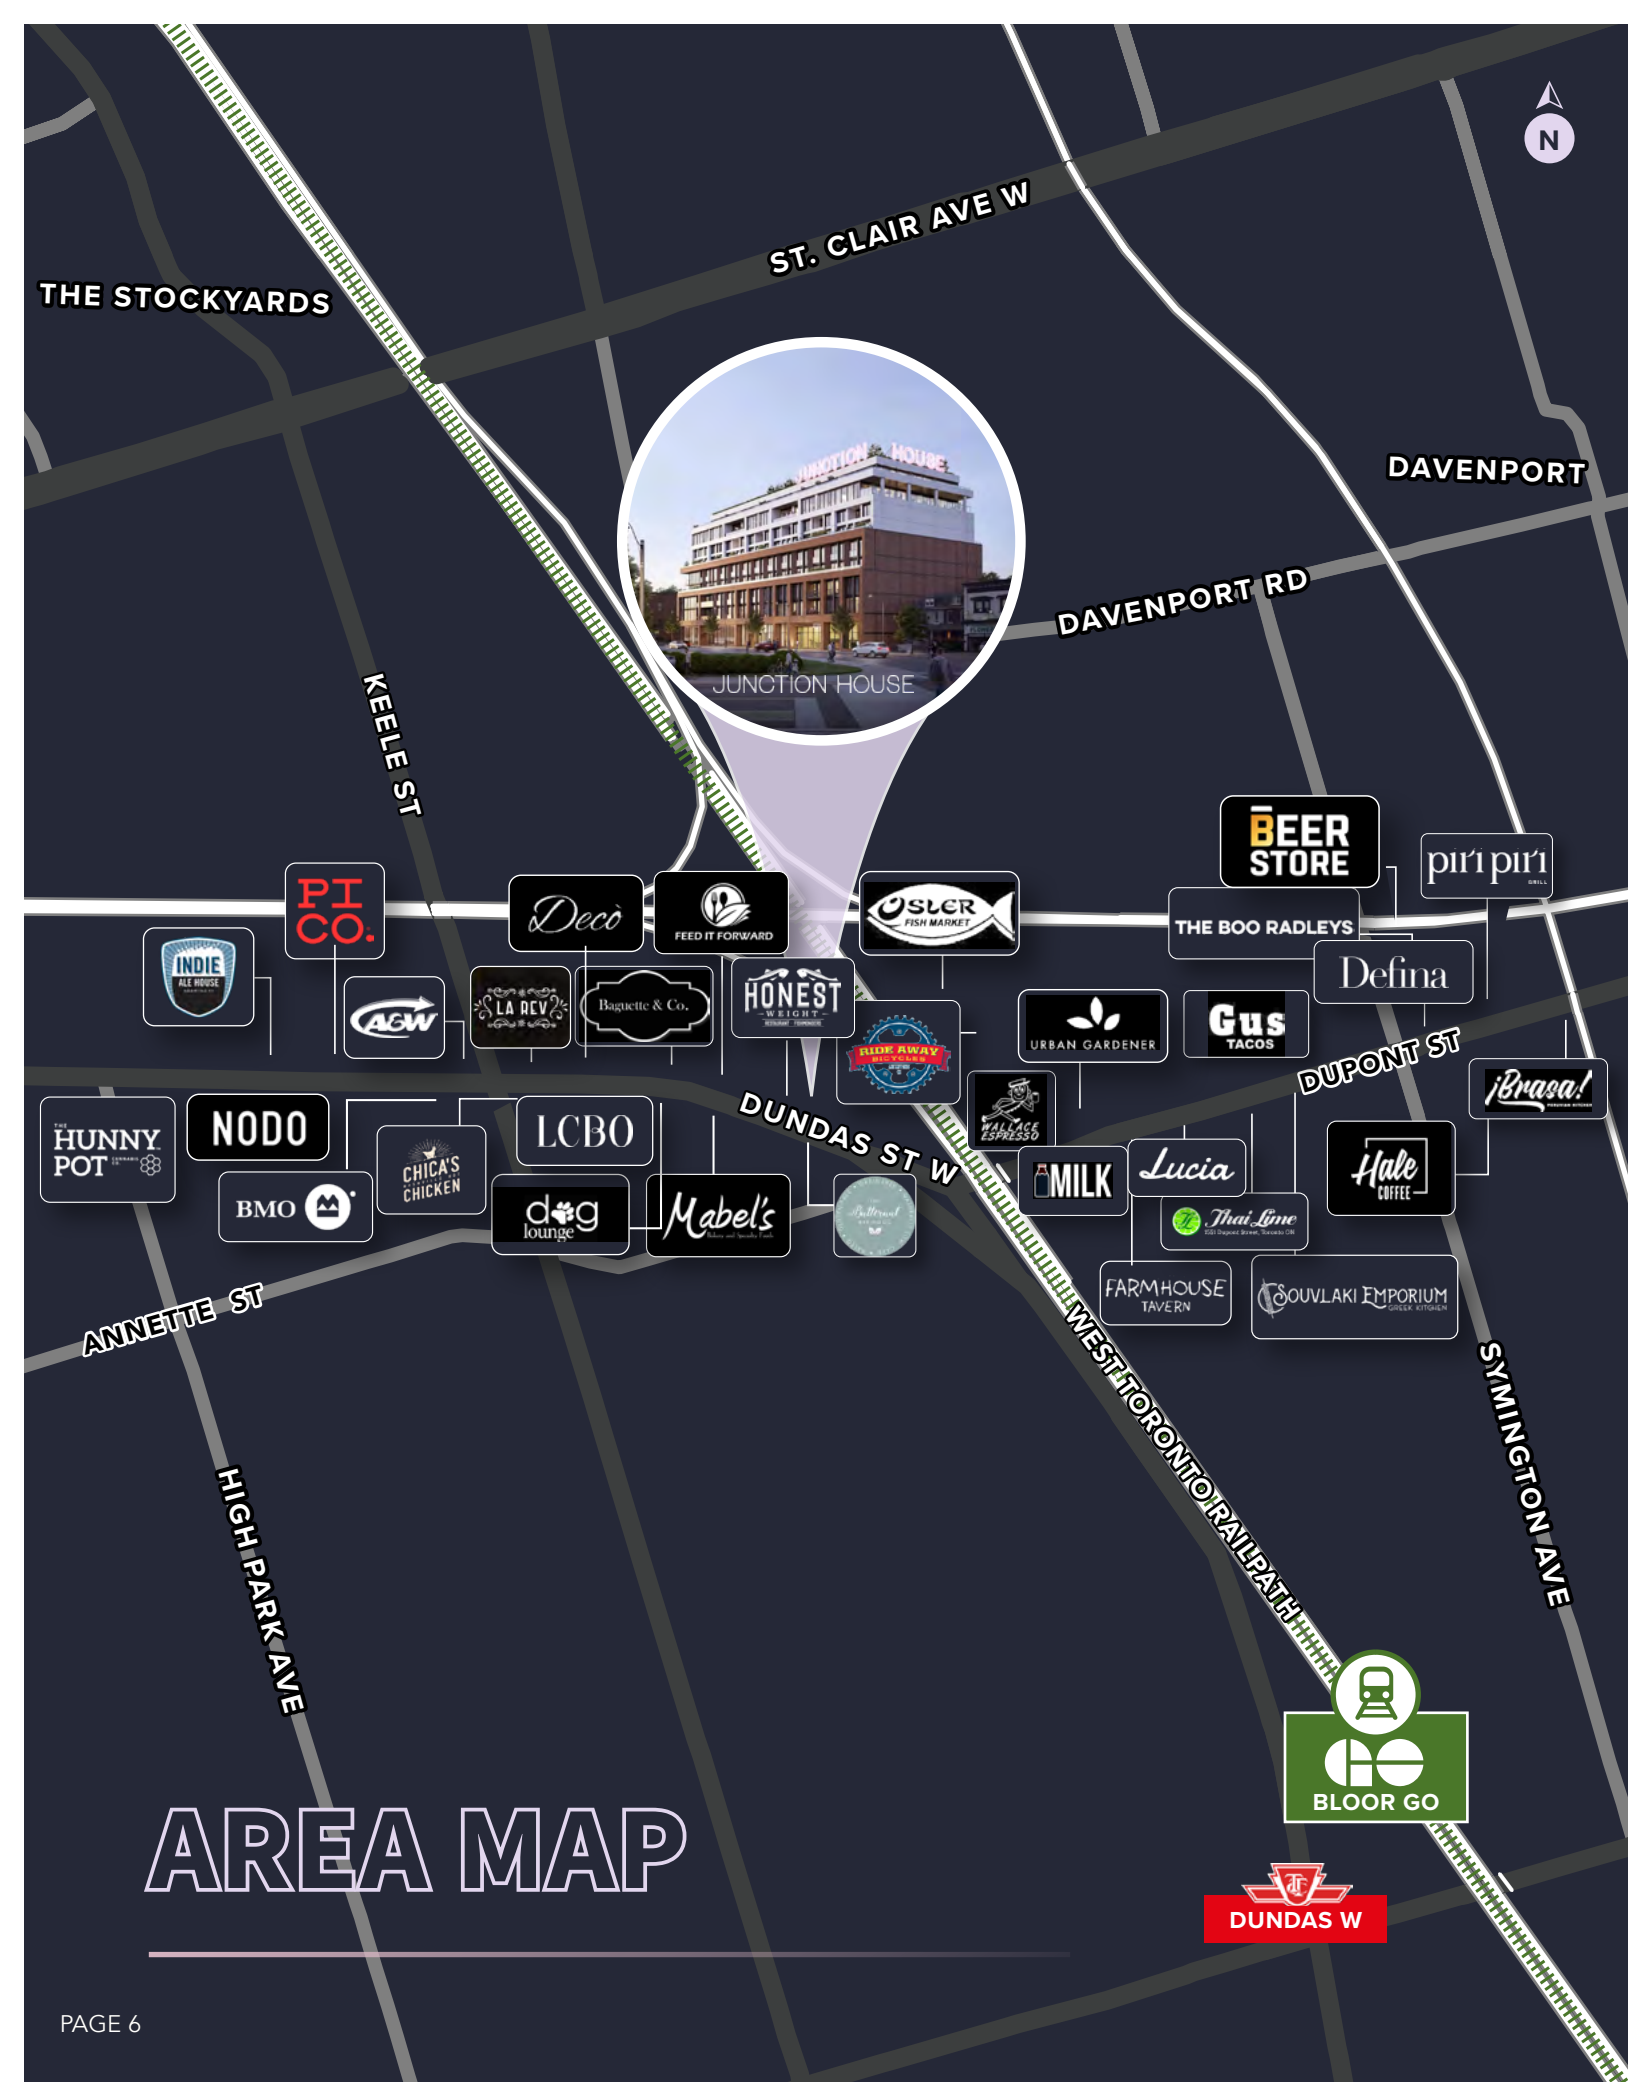

The Junction also boasts countless other options for transportation, including the bus, subway, or train. Multiple TTC and GO Transit services are all easily accessible by foot. The UP Express is not only a convenient way to get to Pearson International Airport, but also unquestionably the quickest way to travel between the Junction and Union Station. These trains depart four times per hour from the conveniently located Bloor GO Station, and travel time to downtown is seven minutes.
