Investment Highlights

Rapidly intensifying locale and the West Don Lands

Positioned at the base of a 134 unit residential condominium in the heart of the vibrant Corktown neighborhood, the Property benefits from unparalleled existing and forthcoming transit connectivity, an abundance of retail, world-class restaurants, nightlife amenities, cafés, and greenspaces. Further, the Property is located directly opposite the West Don Lands project, an 80acre mixed-use Master-Planned community which will bring 6,000 new residents and 23-acres of greenspace to the immediate area. This rapidly intensifying hub is expected to become a new recreation and shopping destination when the project completes in varying stages over the next decade.

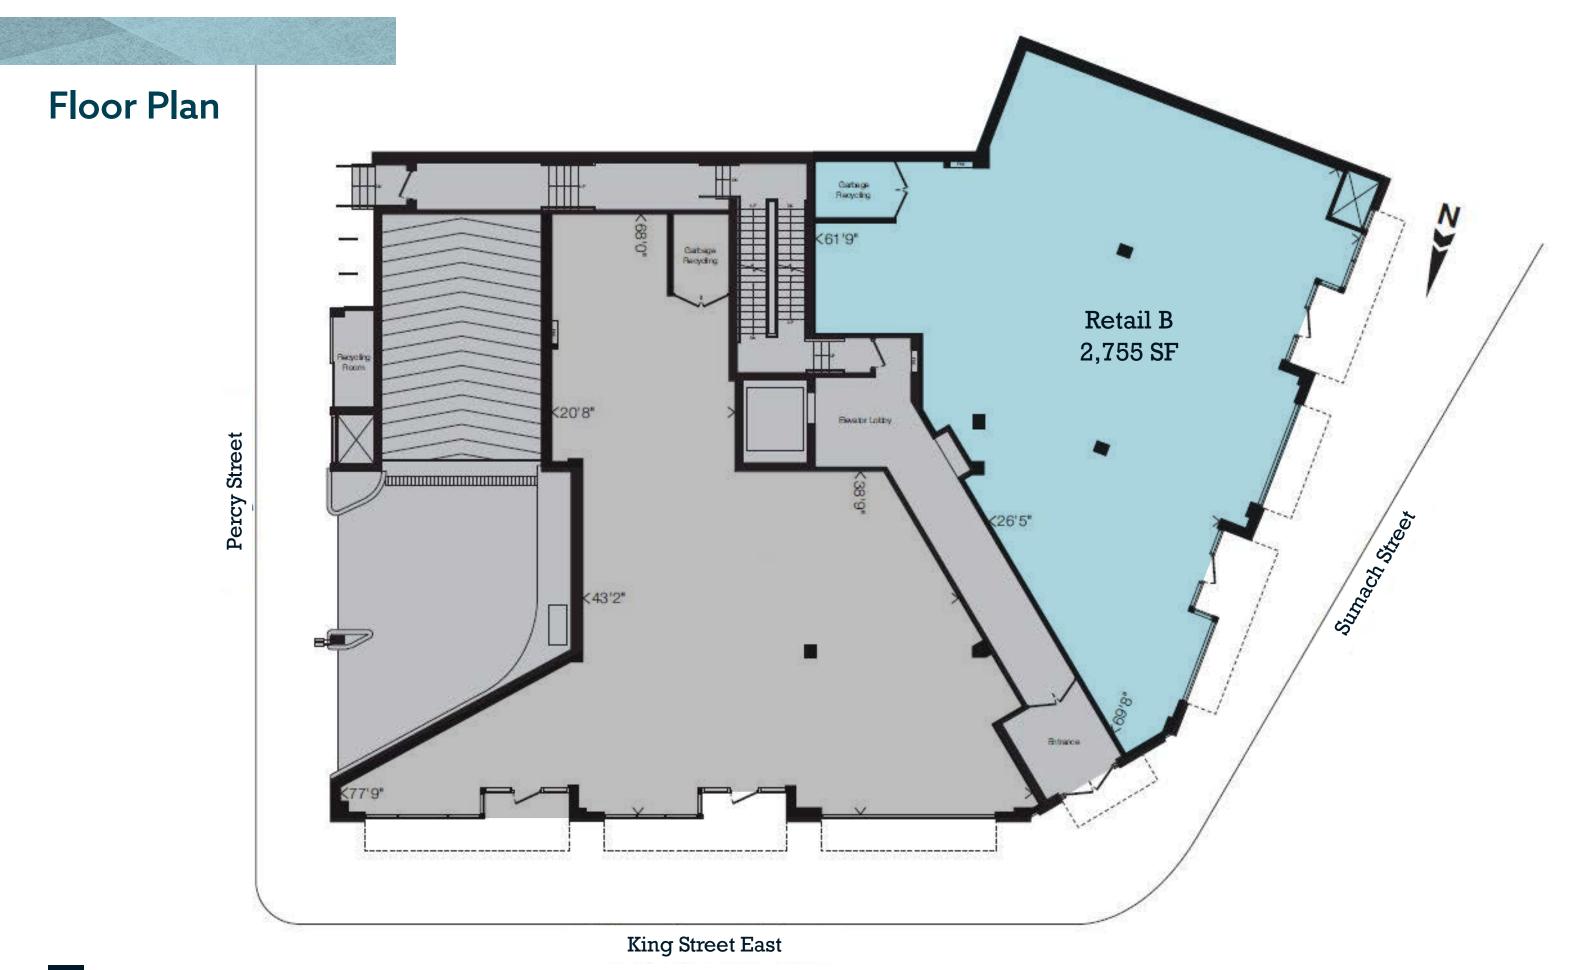

Amenity rich locale with forthcoming transit via the TTC relief line

The new Metrolinx TTC Relief Line, a rapid transit line that would connect Bloor-Danforth to the Downtown Core, will further integrate and reduce commuting times between Toronto's burgeoning Corktown locale and the City's broader transit infrastructure. The new line will extend from Pape to the Downtown Core and will be accessible at the nearby intersection of Berkeley Street at King Street East. As this locale continues to intensify, forthcoming transit and municipal infrastructure will service the Property and enable greater inbound traffic flow volumes to the Property.

Highly-visible Corner Asset

Offering over 70 FT of premier wrap-around frontage along Sumach Street, the Property is amongst the most high-profile of the sparsely available remaining corner retail assets in the City. This high-profile intersection benefits from daily pedestrian and commuter traffic of 17,574 individuals. As the area continues to gentrify, retailers located near this iconic intersection will undoubtedly benefit from enhanced consumer foot traffic and future development.
